

I wrote this poem for the third category, where I chose “someone you found intensely attractive”

Things I Never Knew

You came and left my life with a bright white intensity
Charmed me effortlessly with your bad boy grin
I drove to see you one night
Five past midnight in luminous green clock
I saw a clear blue star that night
One I'd never seen before
Anger, you left without warning
Leaving only gray shadow's trace
That trace is well recorded